Water purification is a process by which undesired chemical compounds, organic and inorganic materials, and biological contaminants are removed from water. Today, water filtration is very important part of the water purification process and make sure you make the right choice on your water filtration system.

Waterco Far East Sdn Bhd, a subsidiary of Waterco Limited which is listed on the Australian Stock Exchange is proudly co-organising a mini workshop with MWA to highlight how the industry players can improve water quality via the depth filtration.
